Update - The Gambling Series
Gambling Expansion Is Everyone's Business!

We do not have to guess what kind of impact gambling expansion will have on local communities in West Virginia. After all, since state government expanded gambling five years ago, we have seen a 450% increase in calls for help from problem gamblers.

These calls for help have human faces and reflect real human pain, pain that impacts people who never even thought of gambling.

In the first three years after Atlantic City legalized gambling, it went from 50th to 1st in the nation in per-capita crime. Nevada is always near the top of the list.

Crime in Atlantic City is about three times the US average, and the murder rate is twice the national average, according to FBI data.

In the five years that Deadwood, South Dakota, legalized gambling, serious crime rose 93%.

In the first three years after Foxwoods Resort Casino in Connecticut opened, robbery, car theft, and larceny all increased more than 400%.

A U.S. News & World Report analysis found average national crime rates in casino communities to be 84% higher than communities without casinos.

Gambling expansion is everyone's business, because everyone pays the price of gambling expansion – whether or not they ever enter a casino.

A vote against table games is a vote for a stronger West Virginia.
